

HAVERFORD TOWNSHIP IN ATLASES AND MAPS

By Richard D. Kerr
Revised August 6, 1013

The listing below gathers together in one place information on more than 100 historical atlas plates and maps that include all or part of Haverford Township. Most were produced contemporary with the year that they depict, but some (those listed as 1862 and 1882, for example) were retrospectively drawn at a later time. Those of the Delaware County Pa. History Website of Keith Lockhart, along with our neighbors at the Radnor Historical Society and the Lower Merion Historical Society, are available online. Simply note the plate numbers shown below and then click the links provided. Maps of the latter two societies are online thanks to cooperative agreements with outside partners. These maps, both individually and compared over time, provide a wealth of information and a fascinating insight into the development of Haverford Township through past decades.
