

HAVERFORD TOWNSHIP IN ATLASES AND MAPS

By Richard D. Kerr

The listing below gathers together in one place information on more than 100 historical atlas plates and maps that include all or part of Haverford Township. Most were produced contemporary with the era that they depict, but those issued in 1862 and 1880 were drawn quite retrospectively. Those of the Delaware County Pa. History Website of Keith Lockhart, along with our neighbors at the Radnor Historical Society and the Lower Merion Historical Society, are available online. (Make a note of the plate or page numbers shown below and then click the links provided.) Maps from the latter two societies are online thanks to cooperative agreements with outside partners, who offer prints for sale. Another good online repository of historical maps is the Greater Philadelphia GeoHistory Network at www.philageohistory.org. These old maps, both individually and compared over time, provide a wealth of information and a fascinating insight into the development of Haverford Township through past decades.
