DENNISTON A. BERKERY (1896-1979)

Compiled by Richard D. Kerr

[The following is excerpted from Who's Who of Delaware County 1926, John T. Donahue, editor, published by Press of Chester Times in 1926.]

DENNISTON BERKERY. Few, if any, among the younger men who are daily helping make history in the development of the eastern section of Delaware County have played a bigger part than Denniston Berkery. Mr. Berkery, who resides in Llanerch, at 106 Llandaff Road, is manager of the Sixty-ninth Street Theatre, Upper Darby. His hobby is theatrical history, and patrons of this beautiful playhouse reap the benefit of his exhaustive search for constant improvement from an artistic standpoint. Mr. Berkery was born in 1896, on June 3rd, the son of Winifred Denniston and Martin Berkery. He is a bachelor and resides with his parents. During the World War he served with the famous 19th Regiment, Railway Engineer Corps. A communicant of the Roman Catholic Church. Politically, a Republican. Football is his favorite sport.

[The following is excerpted from the "Delaware County Daily Times," Chester, Pa., from Monday, April 24, 1967.]

Denniston A. Berkery lived with his wife at 101 Llandaff Road, Llanerch, when she was elected president of the Llanerch Women's Club in 1967.
